finding of said indictment. The United States objects to the whole of the said offered evidence, and the Court sustains the objection and the defendant excepts thereto. Mr Bracley proposed to prove by Mr. Wise that the said Miss Hall had denied that she was the keeper of the house in the presence of Miss Hinkerty, and that the latter acknowleged that she kept the house, to which Mr. Carrington objected, and Mr. Bradley took the following bill of exceptions, which the Court refused: The detendant offered to give in evidence that long before the finding of the said indictment an officer called to see the said defendant at the said house on business, and did see her in the presence of one Emily Hinkerty; that the said defendart told the said officer that she was only a boarder in said house, and wished earnestly to get out of it, and said Emily said she herself was the keeper of it.

Mr. Fradley stated he had no other evidence but on the points be intended to prove by Mr. Wise. The case was then argued by Mr. Bradlev and District Attorney Carrington. Grongerown Councils, Feb. 18 .- Hoard of Aldermen - A communication was received from Joseph Nicholson declining to serve as judge of election -.

Mr. Beall offered a joint resolution to pay R. A Waters $46, being the amount unappropriated for his bill of $90 for publishing the laws of 1863 in pamphlet form, and to pay M. V. Buckey $67.70 for his commission on sales of town property in July and September, 1:63. The : mendment of the Council to the Alder-men's resolution in relation to the Mayor was concurred in.

The following from the Board of Common Council were passed:—Resolution in favor of George G. Browning; resolution authorizing a or dit io the collector for insolvent school taxes; ordinance in relation to the new market-house, and rep aling portions of certain other ordnancee: resolution requesting the clerk of the corperation to pay to the order of the committee representing the interests of Georgetown in Congress the sum of $300; resolution to pay the clause of D. considered.

Mir Collins asked him to state his object first.

Mir Myers said he was in favor of having th latter clause of the bill, providing that the in

'mirg Corporation should receive no pay for their services, repealed. He heartily endorsed the bill, and wished the amount to be paid to each volunteer was $2.0 instead of $150; but he did not think it fair that we should say to the bould not receive pay.

By Truney said that the bill was well understood to provide that the members incoming should not receive puy, and most of the membere would be returned. Eight of the Board had voted not to pay themselves, as did also four of the Aldermen. Mr. T. said that he was not a condidate for re-election, and when he understood that his name had been placed on a ticket he placed a card in the Star desiring his name not to be used; but if men could not be induced to serve without pay he was willing to come back. He thought it was indelicate for the gentlemen to get down and advocate a measure to put two dollars per night in his pocket. If the motion prevailed and the Aldermen refused to concur, and the Council recede, will not it look as if they were trying to put two dollars per night in their pockets? He doubted if he (Mr. Myers) had a right to make the motion, as he did not vote on the bill.

Mr. Myers replied that he did vote. The Chair decided that Mr. Myers had no right to vote, and consequently to make this motion. Mr. Myers appealed from the decision of the Chair, and proceeded to speak of the rights of the Chair and his loyalty. Mr. Tenney called the gentleman to order; he did not think that loyalty had anything to do with the appeal. Mr. Myers replied that he had rights, and would speak till be was done. Mr. Craig said he had some rights, and did not wish the gentleman to speak all night. The question on sustaining the Chair was taken, and decided in the negative. Mr. Craig said with the gentleman's permission he would say that he was glad that he (Mr.

Myers) was coming back-Mr. Arny said that the other night he noticed the gentleman with his spectacles as big as oysier shells, and he had expected that he would have made known his views then. When other members were stating what had been given for the relief of the families of volunteers, he expected the gentleman to state what he had done: but he never said that he had given or would give one red cent. Mr. Myers called him to order.

Mr. Craig. - "The galled jade winces." [Laughter.] The motion to reconsider was lost, Mr. Myers contra in the amimalive. The following unfinished business was disposed of, by being passed:-Resolutions to increase the salaries of the Mayor and Street Commissioner; in favor of E. M. Linthicum & Co.: amending resolution in relation to vaccination; in relation to gas at station-house; for certain flag footways; in favor of J. C Heiston & Co.; in relation to uncollected judgments; for the relief of the suffering poor.

The Aldermen's resolution to pay the claims of R. A. Waters and M. V. Buckey was passed. A message for a joint meeting to elect a judge of the third precinct and inspector of saited provisions and gauger of liquor, after which the heards will adjourn time die, was proposed by Mr. Tenney, and sent to the Aldermen. In joint meeting, John T Blackford was elected judge of election in the third district, and J. C. Johnson inspector of saited provisions and ganger of liquor. Mr. Myers said to test the patriotism of the Board in relation to the bounty bill be would move that the men bers refund, for the benefit of the families of volunteers, the money they bad previously received for pay as members Mr. Craig thought this motion was far fetched, coming from the gentleman. Instead of giving $20,000, he proposes $50,000, and if he could secure his election thereby, he would give $60,000 It would not do to go behind the curtain, but the gentleman was on the committee that reminated himself. Mr. Craig would throw down the gauntlet to the gentleman to meet him at the four preciacts on Monday. Mr. Myers say the gentleman (Mr. Craig) seemed to accuse him of working the wires to keep him (Mr. C.) off the ticket, but he could not help it; the convention saw fit to leave him oil. As for what he did for the cause he would state that he had been taught not to let his "left nand know what his right hand giveth." But the centleman could not get upon the

Mr. Craig-"I might have been if I had been in the convention." Mr. Myers would tell the gentleman that the nominating convention was composed of twenty men, and he, (Mr. C.) got only one vote. Mr. Craig-"And that was not yours." Laughter.

Mr. Myers remembered how he (Mr. C.) used to work the wires in days gone by. There was a ticket the gentleman was on, and on it were also six copperheads. Mr. Craig said he never saw or heard of the ticket before. Mr. Tenney said it might seem surprising that he was not on the ticket, but he had not been to any of the meetings from motives of delicacy, and asked Mr. Myers how the convention was elected. Mr. Myers said the gentleman ought to know that he could not answer, (meaning, it was understood, that he could not answer in regard to the doings of the Union League .- Rep.) Dr. Craigen thought that it must have been a secret concern Mr. Myers asked Mr. Tenney to question the members of the league.

Mr. Tenney asked was that convention Mr. Clements said that about one hundred and seventy-five unconditional Union men formed the convention.

Mr. Tenney said that when the collections were being made for the relief fund he did not see the gentleman's name (Mr. Myers) on the list, and that lately $1,400 had been collected for the Patent Office Fair but his name did not appear on this list. He did not think the motion was proper, but he would give his pay for the past year for the relief of the families of volunteers if the gentleman would give his pay. Dr. Craigen said he was surprised when he saw the ticket with Mr. Tenney's, Mr. Craig's, and his own name left off and was sorry that

Mr. Tenney said for his part he was not anxious to remain in the Corporation. Mr. Myers said as to giving to patriotic objects, what he had given would stand beside what Mr. Tenney had given when their relative means were taken into consideration. Mr. Tenney said he did not anow, although a member of the League, that they were to hold a convention. After the debate had continued for some time, the motion of Mr. Myers for the members to refund their salaries during the year for the benefit of the families of volunteers was adopted. Mr. Marbury offered a resolution of thanks to the President (Mr. Myers) for the impartial manper in which he had presided over the board: which was passed. Mr. Myers responded briefly but eloquently, and declared the board adjourned sine die. General Gilmore in an official order. dated Hilton Head, S.
